

Preparing for Life After High School

It may be that time you thought would never come...your baby is growing up. You have already helped them transition from babyhood to the toddler stage, from the elementary school years to high school. This is another transition you will navigate through together—and we can help.

Hosted by Noble and presented by IN*SOURCE, this Center for Family Leadership workshop will cover:

- Transition IEPs
- Independent Living/Supported Living
- After High School Options: Employment, Secondary Education, Day Centers, etc.
- Financial Planning
- Other Community & State Resources
- Staying Involved in the Community: Volunteering, Recreation, etc.

Bring your questions, and together we will learn how to cope with this next stage of life.

Our Presenter

Esther Whittlesey has been with IN*SOURCE for 8 years, and is the Team leader/Supervisor for the Liaisons who support families in Marion and Hamilton Counties. Prior to IN*SOURCE, she had retired after 40 years of teaching students with special needs in public school. Her last 7 years before retirement was as a special education administrator at Ben Davis High School. The experience at Ben Davis was an eye-opener concerning the transition of students with special needs into adulthood. It is her wish that every student who leaves school will be able to obtain and maintain a productive and satisfying adulthood experience.
